Joe Ward Approved by CB As Replacement for Nichols

By PAULA LATHAM

Kaimin Reporter
Joe Ward was approved by Central Board last night as Kaimin managing editor to replace Keith Nichols who has resigned. Ward, a junior from Darby making in journalism and economics, has been working as a police reporter for the Missoulian. He has been at UM for five quarters and has a 2.97 grade average. He has attended Indiana University, San Antonio College and the Armed Forces Institute in Japan. Central Board voted to sponsor the train to Bozeman for the Bobcat-Grizzly game Nov. 6. The board accepted six freshmen and two sophomores to enter the Central Board general elections next week. (See election story.)

Five hundred and fifty-four freshmen and 145 sophomores voted yesterday. Jim Perego, Elections Committee chairman, said he hopes to get more people out to vote next week. There will be an elections convocation Monday night at 8:30 in the Yellowstone Room of the Lodge.

In a report on the Associated Student Governments convention in Indiana last week, ASUM president John Ross said that he believes it "not wise for ASUM to continue ASG membership." He said that he profited little from the meetings, mostly because of the great difference in the nature and size of the schools represented at the convention. He added, "I

Three Named Delegates to Library Group

Mortar Board and Silent Sentinel, senior honoraries, named delegates to the Friends of the Library Committee at a meeting Tuesday night.

Dick Holmquist, Libby Sale and Bill Velde were named regular delegates. Jack Hanson, Gary Libecap, Jim Parker and Carol Robinson were named alternates.

The student committee is a branch of a larger organization which includes faculty members and townspeople. "The UM Friends of the Library Committee forms a liaison between the student body and the main organization, which works for enrichment of the university library," said Earle Thompson, Dean of Library Service.

MUN Delegate to Speak

Greg Osborn will speak at Friday's Montana Forum in Territorial Room 4 at noon. He is one of the 14 new delegates to Model UN. UM represents New Zealand this year.

don't think it's worth the money we're putting out for it."

Central Board appropriated $1,300 for organizational expenses for a high school Model United Nations program which will be called Montana United Nations. The money will come from the reserve fund.

Tom Behan, Planning Board chairman, reported work done by Planning Board on the reapportionment study, committee policy requests and the composition of more lenient campaign rules. He also explained the proposed by-laws changes for Kaimin staff pay increases. This proposal will not be acted upon by the board until next week.

Central Board also voted to refer to Budget and Finance Committee a request for complimentary tickets to the Homecoming concert for Central Board delegates, officers and committee chairman.

Pub Board Recommends Kaimin Managing Editor

Joe Ward was recommended to Central Board for managing editor of the Kaimin by Publications Board last night.

Publications Board also accepted Keith Nichols' resignation as managing editor.

Nichols' statement read: "Please consider this as my formal resignation as managing editor of the Montana Kaimin. I have decided not to make a lengthy statement at this time as I am certain that what I have to say could best be used at a later date in defense of Kaimin policy."

Today's Weather

Weather will be mostly fair today with increasing cloudiness tomorrow. Little temperature change is expected. A high of 55 degrees is expected today with a low of 28 degrees tonight.

Kitzenberg, Moore Lead

Six Frosh, Two Sophs Left In Running for CB Positions

Six freshmen and two sophomores remain in the running for Central Board posts after yesterday's primary election.

Sam Kitzenberg topped all freshman candidates with 342 votes. The votes for the other five freshmen were: Bob Anderson, 311; Ken Bennington, 302; Jim Maxon, 228; Candy Garrett, 202 and Peggy Blom, 200.

These six candidates will campaign for freshman Central Board delegate in the Oct. 26 general election.

Ramarrah Moore led the sophomore candidates with 104 votes. Rick Baird had 85 votes and Terry Savage had 52. Miss Moore and Baird will compete for sophomore delegate to Central Board next Tuesday.

Other freshmen on the primary ballot were: J. Scott Wheeler, 167 votes; Charles Wilber, 153; Ray Watters, 147; Bret Pijan, 141; Peggy Hart, 140; Gary Hill, 129; Marty Melosi, 126 and Terry Krebs, 119.

Three Films Tonight at 8

Three films will be shown at Thursday's Topic at 8 tonight in Territorial Room 5 of the Lodge.

The films are: "Israel," "Formosa Story," and "Islands of the South Pacific."

Noisy Hundred Climb Sentinel For Coffee Break

Nearly one hundred screaming, singing freshman foresters hiked to the summit of Mt. Sentinel for coffee last night.

The climb was part of the initiation of the new members of Forestry Club.

Winners of the Junior Bull of the Woods contest held at the Fall Smoker were announced at the meeting preceding initiation. Bill Hoveland won an axe for placing first. Dwight Crawford got the second prize, a hard hat.

The Foresters are wondering if Paul Bunyan will leave his tracks around town before the Foresters' Ball next month.

Women Select Three to Head Triangle Dorm

Officers for Triangle, freshman women's dormitory complex, elected last week are Pat Robinson, president; Karen Cole, secretary; Carmen De Silva, treasurer.

Officers for Brantly Hall are Betsy Hightower, president; Pam Patrick, AWS chairman; Carol Herbert, social chairman; Andrea Holombo, WRA representative.

North Corbin officers are Bonnie Herda, president; Bonnie Pfeiffer, AWS chairman; Mary Ewald, social chairman; Edith Shire, WRA representative.

Officers in Corbin Hall are Barb West, president; Nancy Johnson, AWS chairman; Mary Ann Jolley, social chairman; Kathy Davis, WRA representative.

Officers for Turner Hall are Dana Redmond, president; Sally Speer, vice president; Janet Maurer, secretary; Carol Harris, treasurer.

Elections for Knowles Hall were conducted last spring and those for Elrod are pending.

Operators Need Student Numbers

Students who did not give the gistrar their addresses and phone numbers during registration are asked to supply the university telephone switchboard with this information as soon as possible. "We only have information on about half of the students," reported one switchboard operator. "We get some very important calls from these students," she noted, adding that it's time consuming and often impossible to locate them. The switchboard asks, too, that students seeking telephone information between 1 and 11 p.m. call extension 776. Information calls before 1 p.m. are handled by the main switchboard.

Spurs to Attend Regional Meeting in Pullman, Wash.

Seven UM Spurs will attend the regional Spur convention at Washington State University in Pullman, Wash., this weekend.

Nan Comeaux, Dianne Higby, Ann Murdo, Margaret Peterson, Linda Rittenberry, Jane Rowland, and Audrey Sheble will attend the convention.

Spurs from eight other chapters in the northwest region will share ideas and discuss problems with the UM Spurs.

The UM Spurs have challenged the MSU Spurs to a powder puff football game. The game will be played in Bozeman the morning of the Bobcat-Grizzly game, Nov. 6.

Tuesday night the Spurs gave a party for the Bear Paws to congratulate them for being selected and to welcome them to a year of university service.

Prices Set for Train Tickets To Bobcat-Grizzly Game

Train tickets to Bozeman for the Bobcat-Grizzly game will be on sale next week only and will cost $8.50.

The originally quoted price was based on the cost of chartering the train two years ago, $2,185. This year it will cost $3,785. Central Board voted last night to sponsor the train and to absorb additional costs.

The tickets will be accepted by the Northern Pacific Sunday, Nov. 7, to enable students to stay overnight in Bozeman and return the following day.

Women intending to take the train must receive a letter of permission from their parents. This letter will be turned in to the Dean of Women.

A HAYSTACK FULL OF NEEDLES—may be an appropriate description of the Lodge Territorial Rooms used for the Red Cross blood drawing Tuesday and Wednesday. The Red Cross goal was 350 units. UM fell short the mark with 294 units donated. Kappa Kappa Gamma had the highest percentage participation with 45 per cent of the members donating. Theta Chi was second with 39 per cent participation. Alpha Phi had 27 per cent participating. Sigma Kappa, 25 per cent, Sigma Phi Epsilon, 22 per cent and Phi Sigma Kappa, 15 per cent. (Kaimin Photo by Randy Knight)

Best Students Are Dissenters

BY PAUL GOODMAN

Many students tell me they are in school this year, or in school already, to avoid the rice paddies. They say it angrily, not slyly. Their moral problem is an unquestioned one. It is not that they are shirking the army for their personal comfort or their careers—a dodge that occurs at all times and in all countries; rather, they feel they ought to be resisting the present war more honestly, burning draft-cards, going to jail, etc. According to the opinion polls, the President has a solid popular majority for his policy, but I doubt that he has anything like a majority in the colleges, especially among the younger instructors and the students. Thus, I expect the anti-war and anti-war demonstrations to be stronger and to involve civil disobedience, if only because of these students' self-disgust for their privileged exempt status.

On the other hand, for the students who are not protesters, the draft-policy does not have much patriotic significance. I doubt that there are many students who feel enthusiastic that their college training is an indispensable function of the Great Society and its war effort, so that their student-deferment is valued as a positive good, rather than a lucky break.

Even more serious, however, the most intellectually earnest students are the strongest dissenters, on Civil Rights, University reform, pacifism, opposition to the Vietnam war. This was evident at Berkeley, where the Free Speech Movement leaders had grades far superior to the average of the same. It has just been demonstrated across the country in a report for the Carnegie Corporation: dissent is strongest in schools with the highest academic standing and, in those schools, among the best students. Think of the unfortunate, and dangerous, polarization among young people that this implies. The armed forces tend to be filled with the poor and uneducated. They are drafted, and they also tend to be drafted since they are likely to be drafted anyway and they might as well have it over with; besides in peace-time conditions, the armed services provide education for the ambitious that is better than most high schools and some colleges. In war-time conditions, the selected group at the front understandably resents the protesters at home who are a different breed. A reporter from Danang (Warren Rogers in the N.Y. Journal-American) says "The 18-and-19-year-olds, fashionably referred to as high school dropouts, have steel in their backbones and maybe too much of what prize-fighters call killer instinct." But the protesters are most often better informed, more reasonable, and even more earnest. Naturally the men at the front think of them as slackers, careerists, beatniks, or nuts.

On the streets, the ever louder crowds that curse the young pacifist demonstrators are in fact likely to be cursing the young people of whom they would ordinarily be most proud and whom they would like their own children to emulate. If the American casualty lists mount, we are bound to see a Know Nothing spirit worse than McCarthyism. For the dissent is more widespread, stubborn, and intellectually critical than it was in McCarthy's time. This is certainly a grim relationship between the community of scholars and society.

Deferment for Scholars

Consider another bad aspect of this relationship. Precisely to diminish shirking and to guarantee social utility (according to its lights), as well as to increase recruitment, the government will now exempt only students who get good grades, carry a full course-load, and even are in the sciences rather than the humanities. But this kind of extra-mural pressuring is academically outrageous. The curriculum and level of performance that warrant a student's being in college must be entirely the affair of the student and his professors, otherwise educational process is impossible. For a particular student at a particular time, a light load, off-campus work, a moratorium might be just the right thing. A student's mediocre grades might be quite irrelevant to the question of how much he is profiting. The right curriculum depends on where and how a student is.

I am unwilling in this column to discuss the merits of the Vietnam war as policy—in my opinion, it is both unjust and impolitic—but as an academic I must say this: the pressuring and interference of the draft policy in academic matters are intolerable and poison the atmosphere of the community of scholars. It is the duty of faculty concerted to protest against them and it is the duty of students to urge the faculty to do so.

New Policy Needed

In abstract logic, the "just policy" on the student deferment is clear: Either the war is just and then nobody should be deferred (except for absolute social or personal necessity); all must be in it together. Or the war is unjust and we should get the hell out of it. And abstractly I agree with this forthright reasoning, but—

Since the President does not seem to be about to give up the war, the logic means abolishing the deferment. The students would of course be wildly against it, for various good and bad reasons. Also, University administrators would be against it, since it would diminish their population and grandeur, even if many students only to avoid the draft. But finally, I think the government itself must shy away from such a step, for it cannot be eager to cope with the unknown, but certainly very large, number of students who oppose war and would strenuously object being drafted, but who now settle quietly for deferment. At present the government is obviously disposed to get most of its troops from the National Guard and the Reserves, rather than asking for an Emergency and risking debate. Yet this drift toward a big professional army is hazardous to democracy, and we may rue it.

Schuster Links Rorvik With Socrates

To the Kaimin:

More power to you, Rorvik!

Consider yourself flattered, but don't let the flattery go to your head, by the fact that many of the pot shots aimed at you resemble the attacks leveled against Socrates for ridiculing beliefs and practices regarded by most Athenians as sacrosanct.

Mr. Steve Carroll complains that there is more discussion about you than about the content of your editorials. This, I fear, is true, and I deplore it. However, I would place the greater part of the blame upon those who are doing the discussing. Most of them seem to find it easier and more emotionally satisfying to call you names, than to offer thoughtful answers to your views on Vietnam, on the fetiches of nationalism, on the inhumanity of Catholic doctrine on birth control, etc.

A small part of the blame for the dearth of intelligent discussion of the issues you have raised may, nevertheless, be imputed to you. Frequently, it seems to me, you ornament your serious and vital concerns with too many verbal gambols, which have shock-effect only, and distract attention from the issues you raise. If it is your desire, as I believe it is, to arouse thought, you might learn something from Socrates about the kind of wit which serves that end.

Despite this criticism, I thank you for giving us so much to think about. In my opinion it would be a great loss if, instead of you, we had an editor who offended no one.

Rorvik Warned

To the Kaimin:

Say, Rorvik:

Your editorials are cheap, tawdry and profane! Certainly we do not expect all "cream" flowing from your illustrious pen, but we do expect that the "milk" won't turn sour!

Don't let us get the idea that you "are polymorphously sexual" and, in that case, "unacceptable to adult society!"

Nord Optimistic About Basketball Prospects

By GENE SPEELMAN
Kaimin Sports Reporter

Grizzly basketball practice started Monday and University of Montana Head Coach Ron Nord is looking toward the 1965-66 hoop season with optimism.

"We are already five or six weeks ahead of last season," Nord said. There was a good deal of pre-practice training this year among squad members.

There are 18 men working out each day in the Field House and three more are expected to join from the football team later.

Glen Smith, a junior forward from Missoula, severed a tendon in his heel in early practice and may be out for the season.

Nord said the final roster will include 12 to 15 men, and will probably not be announced until mid-November.

This year's material is the fastest and best balanced in many years, according to Nord.

Besides the added strength of new sophomores from last year's freshman squad, there are four junior college transfers who figure to add to the Grizzly attack.

Nord spoke highly of Art Davis, a JC transfer from Los Angeles and John (Doc) Holliday, a transfer from Greenfield, Indiana. He said that they could provide the speed and consistent shooting from the outside that Montana has sorely needed in the past.

to force opponents to play our kind of game, instead of our playing theirs, which has been the case many times in past seasons."

Other transfer talent includes Dennis Belitnikoff and Wayne Becker, both from Chula Vista, Calif., and Ralph Cockrell from Sheridan, Wyo. Becker is starting offensive right tackle for the Grizzly football team.

Senior lettermen returning are Wade Hughes, South Bend, Ind.; Jary Peck, Libby; Mike Persha, Red Lodge; John Quist, Cut Bank; Ed Samelton, South Bend, Ind.; Gene Williams, Pekin, Ill., and Bill Sullivan, Anaconda.

Juniors seeking their second letters are Jon King, Cut Bank; Tom Schilke, Racine, Wis., and Smith.

Hanson and McDonald are also members of the Grizzly football team. Hanson is defensive left end and McDonald defensive right safety. Nord was unsure of McDonald's return to basketball.

Nord said that the conference will be at least as tough as last year with only the Bobcats from Montana State University not as strong. The Weber State Wildcats have most of their starters back from last year, as do the Zags from Gonzaga.

"We are going to give every team we face 40 minutes of hard, fast, pressure basketball," the head mentor added.

IM Tourney Starts Today

Preliminaries for the all-intramural football tournament will begin today at 4 p.m. at the Clover Bowl, according to Ed Chinske, intramural director.

Chinske announced that three teams from each of the three leagues will compete in the finals. Ties for third place in the Fraternity League and A League made the preliminary games necessary.

Today's games at 4 p.m. will match Sigma Alpha Epsilon against Sigma Chi on Clover Bowl Two and Craig 3rd West against the Chinks on Clover Bowl One.

Friday at 4 p.m. on Clover Bowl Two, the Packers will meet the winner of the Grizzly football tournament.

The tournament will continue at 4 p.m. Tuesday. Chinske indicated that as the tourney approaches the finals, all games will be played on the Field House fields because they are larger and have better spectator facilities.

Teams already qualified for the tournament are Sigma Nu, Theta Chi, Bees, Grundoons, Independent Spartans, Vapors and Ugliers.

Completes Committee Work

Abbott Packs for Colorado

Frank C. Abbott, UM academic vice president, is wrapping up his duties before leaving to assume a position with the Colorado Commission on Higher Education, Nov. 1.

Mr. Abbott said his work on three committees will be finished before he leaves.

According to Abbott the committee in charge of the summer school program will be re-organized under the financial and academic vice presidents of the University and the administrative and academic deans.

"People aren't too sure who is responsible for the student's academic program; whether it's the students or their faculty advisers," Mr. Abbott said.

The curriculum committee studying the faculty advisory system will deal with two problems he said.

First, it will try to clarify the student's and faculty's separate responsibilities. Secondly, it will attempt to improve the program of faculty advising for freshman and transfer students.

"Before I get away, we expect to get these ideas worked out reasonably well," he said.

A third committee that will receive Mr. Abbott's final attention is the committee on graduation which deals with credit transfers from other colleges.

According to Mr. Abbott this group will compile a policy statement concerning credits to be accepted under UM's 1965-67 catalog and present it to the registrar.

Explaining his new job, Mr. Abbott said he will be executive director of the Colorado Commission on Higher Education.

The commission will co-ordinate the academic and financial planning for higher education institutions in the state.

No announcement has been made as to a replacement for Mr. Abbott.

A Honda needs a mere 3'x6' feet content. And that puts a spot, about a mile away from

There are other sides to Honda, too. Hondas are fiendishly frugal. A gallon of gas will carry you up to 200 mpg, depending on which of the 15 Honda models you're driving. And insurance bills shrink to practically nothing. As for upkeep, a Honda needs little.
